After a short pause after Christmas, Coronoga decided the student United Way collection from Coronoga College Kitchener and Coronoga College London in New Orleans is help worthy.

Other students, volunteer and help are looking north with North Miami College and Sheridan College.

Successful young volunteer student Michael Sydney says he signed up to go on the trip because he was afraid the state where he was it was bad.

"I wanted to go back there and finally doing something that was a helping hand to people in need," he says.

The first part of the trip was not any the culture of New Orleans, as well as the English, the French language had to be.

The second part of the trip was going to the food bank, where they were to help the people who were in need. They were to help the people who were in need.

Sydney says the most memorable part was seeing the people who were in need. They were to help the people who were in need.

ST. PATTY'S TOASTS

Raise your glass to one of these traditional phrases today

"May you live to be a hundred years, with one extra year to spend"

"May the best day of your past be the worst day of your future"

"May you get all your wishes but one, so you always have something to strive for"

"Here's to your coffee, may it be full of 100 year-old oats which I will plant tomorrow"

"May your blessings outnumber the shamrocks, that grow, and may trouble avoid you wherever you go"

"I've drunk to your health in the pub, I've drunk to your health in my home, I've drunk to your health so many times that I've almost ruined my liver"

Music fans brave the storm and get an earful

by JOSHUA KRAVITZ

Despite the record-setting snowfall, my radio and the place I am now called Highway 9 into the GO! Music Festival took place on March 15 and 16 in various venues throughout Westcoast Region. Each location showcased three to seven bands, some more than the others, while others had their own in-house shows.

The event was the trademark of John Bonfanti, president of The Flies. One of his sons, Bonfanti, approached his father, and just to make sure he had the best experience, he had his father go to the event. The first event was an outdoor, rain-soaked and snowed-out Bonfanti's was not organizing the event properly.

John Bonfanti, the director of the event at The Flies, was the first to see the event as a record-setting event.

The winter winds howled over the snow-covered ground as a group of students in winter gear and safety vests gathered around a vehicle, possibly a bus, in a snowy environment. The students were participating in a scenario-based training exercise.

Although the students were not actually involved in the accident, they were acting out the roles of the victims and the emergency responders.

The scenario was set up to simulate a real-life emergency situation. The students were given roles to play, and they were to act out the scene as if it were a real accident.

Leanne Phillips, co-ordinator of the LAGA program, explained that the students were given roles to play, and they were to act out the scene as if it were a real accident.

Alumni lends a helping hand

By FRANK PERAZICHOW

Conestoga College will be celebrating approximately 1000 years since its founding this year. For those grads looking to celebrate, graduates of the school have a chance to help the school by donating to the Alumni Association of Conestoga College of alumni.

The association will have a booth in the atrium of the school on March 20 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the time of a number of important graduation activities with the school of alumni available to help with the ceremony.

"The idea of it is to bring alumni back to school to show them the school and provide them feedback to help they better connect," said Mary Wright, manager of alumni services.

Wright said it is important to show grads that their participation in the school is not just a one-time thing, but they are also a part of the school's future.

Some of the services provided through the alumni association include Conestoga College's alumni magazine published quarterly for alumni to read, as well as access to the online alumni directory and the alumni newsletter. Wright said the association also provides a number of other services including job postings, provided through the school's career services department.

Think you pay too much for school?

Did you know that the Minister of Training, Colleges and Universities has a 'Binding Policy Directive' that prohibits all public colleges and universities in Ontario from collecting tuition-related ancillary fees?

Did you know that Conestoga College is charging a tuition-related I.T. ancillary fee that costs each student more than $210 per year?

Did you know that the Minister is doing nothing to stop this?

The Canadian Federation of Students—Ontario is recommending that the Ontario government:

- immediately enforce its Binding Policy Directive that prohibits colleges from charging students tuition-related ancillary fees; and
- replace the $50 million per year of illegal ancillary fees revenue that the colleges are collecting, with public funding starting in the 2008 budget to be presented later this month.

It only takes 2 minutes to send a letter to help stop illegal ancillary fees. Use our website to send your letter now:
